A DELIBERATE MISREPRESENTATION

Alleged Repudiation of Davis and Indorsement of Donahy by Cleveland Ministerial Union A Democratic Frame Up.

In the American Issue of October 22nd appears an article announcing the repudiation of the Ministerial Union of the Cleveland Federation of Churches' repudiation of Harry L. Davis, Republican Candidate for Governor, and endorsement of A. V. Donahy, Democratic Candidate.

A prominent citizen of Wauseon wrote to inquire as to the accuracy of this statement and as to its accuracy. The following is the reply received from one who had made investigation and secured information from competent witnesses:

"The action taken by the Cleveland ministers was framed up by the Democrats. The meeting was addressed by an attorney, which is entirely out of order for the ministers to have an outsider come in. This attorney is a close personal friend and business associate of Phil Donahy, Vice Donahy's brother. The information on which they based their indorsement was furnished them by a former policeman by the name of Mangon, who was up for charges seven times and dismissed from the force twice. There were twenty-two ministers in attendance out of a total membership of about two hundred and eighty. Some of the ministers were not in sympathy with the move and tried to protest but were not permitted to take the floor."

The above is an extract from a letter to the citizen named, signed by C. A. Jones executive secretary of the Ohio Republican State Executive Committee and we are disposed to give it full credence for we know that it has not been the policy either to circulate misrepresentations in regard to candidates (of the opposition party) nor to state anything but facts in regard to the candidates of the Republican party.

The statement in the American Issue in our opinion is in line with other misrepresentations that have been made and are being made by the Democrats in their desperate attempt to save the office of governor of Ohio for the Democrats. It is in line with the efforts to make the farmers of the State believe that Mr. Davis is a single taxer or classificationist, or anything else that might be objectionable to the farmers. It is in line with the statement made to some of the delegates at the W. C. T. U. Convention last week, to the effect that the letters endorsing Mr. Davis were both as to character and efficiency as a public officer from five of the leading clergymen of Cleveland, were old letters that had been written for Mr. Davis in a previous campaign when he had been running for another office. Everyone of these letters made specific mention of Mr. Davis' candidacy for governor and Mr. Davis has never been a candidate for governor of Ohio before this year. In regard to these letters, the writer of this article has known Dr. Dan Freeman Bradley, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church of Cleveland for the past twenty years and he knows him to be absolutely reliable, straight forward, honest and possessed of extraordinary intelligence and further the writer knows that when Dan F. Bradley writes over his signature that he KNOWS been a Republican governor House Bill 620 would have been passed as an emergency measure and would never have been left to a referendum. This is the bill to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in the State and to enact laws for the enforcement of such prohibition.

Mr. Davis as governor is pledged to give us a clean efficient and economical administration reducing the burden of taxation in the State enforcing state and federal laws and co-operating with the Republican administration in carrying out in the state of Ohio the program of reconstruction and return to sane and safe constitutional government in the interests of and for the welfare of ALL the people with out prejudice or partiality for any particular class or classes. He has the unqualified endorsement of Hon. Frank B. Willis candidate for U. S. Senator and of the leaders of the Republican forces of the state both men and women who have investigated his past record.

We sincerely believe that the best interests of the State and nation of clean, moral and efficient government will be secured by the election as governor of Ohio and therefore we shall not only vote for him ourselves but recommend and urge others to do so.

FULTON COUNTY HOLSTEIN PICNIC

Held Monday October 18th at the Fair Grounds was a very successful and enjoyable meeting. The forenoon was spent in visiting and inspecting the bulls that were to be sold. After a magnificent basket dinner the program opened by W. H. Standish demonstrating the score card by actually applying the scale of points to a cow owned by Mr. Spring, the cow scored 87 1/2 points. Mr. Standish certainly handled the subject in a skillful manner.

Mr. L. E. Connell, president of the Association gave a very interesting talk in which he stated that the Dairyman had become careless and gave very little attention to the marketing of their produce. He advocated separating the cream and feeding the milk. He also condemned the public for using Oleomargarine and other butter substitutes. He also demonstrated that the tuberculosis among people had been actually cured, where patients had been put on a milk diet. Also that the large percentage of infantile paralysis and other children occurs among children that do not receive their daily milk.

Mr. Howell, Henry County Agent gave a very interesting and instructive address. He stated that this is the very time for the Dairyman to stay in and get in the Dairy business.

He demonstrated that the man that is continually changing from one line of farming to another could not succeed but the Dairyman who stayed in (breed) (fed) and (sold) would be the winner. He advised farmers to all join the organization to future educational advertising campaign to spend some money advertising their product. He also advocated organizing a Boys and Girls "Calf Club" as a means of interesting the boys and keeping them on the farm. He stated that he had just returned from Chicago by auto where he had attended The National Dairy Show and on his trip through Indiana he saw farm after farm abandoned. The soil looked black and fertile and on inquiring he found it was valuable high priced land, but not being farmed for lack of interest. The boys had gone to South Bend and Chicago for higher wages.

The next speaker was Mr. Jay Burr who gave a very interesting talk on the Milk Producers Sale Company. Mr. Burr had just returned from Chicago attending a meeting of Representatives from all parts of the United States and he stated that the Milk Producers Sale Company was not for a monopoly to form prices and to oppress the people to consume their own milk. The object was just to bring the milk to the consumer and to furnish milk to the consumer at a small profit, about actual cost of production. Also the Association is formed to increase the use of Dairy product and to discourage the use of Oleomargarine and other inferior articles.

Our County Agent, R. A. Cave, gave an informal talk advocating a Boys and Girls "Calf Club," stating how boys must be visited after they own the calf and encouraged with proper instructions, to bring proper results. Mr. Cave volunteered his service to the Association immediately organized the Calf Club by electing Mr. Cave president, Mr. Chas. P. Grisher, Vice President and Clark Biddle, secretary.

Following came the Bull Calf Sale, while the crowd was large it was principally composed of members of the Association, who were not in need of a sire for their herd. Therefore the sale was not a success. After the sale the drawing of the calf took place, the lucky number being held by Mr. G. G. Rychnauer of Ottokree. He was certainly well pleased to take home with him such a beautiful calf. It was one of the best meetings the Association ever held. Our next meeting will be about the 1st of January.

Messrs Carl Gungirica and Harold Barber, both employed on the electric street car line, were on duty at the fair and were very helpful in the sale of the calves and in the sale of the milk.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING OF MILK

Northwestern Ohio and Southern Michigan have come to be recognized as an important dairy section. The development of the dairy industry here has been largely due to the establishment of a half dozen Condenseries within a radius of 20 miles. These condenseries have without question been of great benefit to our farmers.

During the war the export demand for condensed milk made the condensing business a most profitable one at the price paid producers for milk. According to reports from contesting associations the average cost of producing milk during the war period was considerably above the price the dairymen obtained. But as in other lines, the farmers were urged to produce more regardless of cost of production, and he did produce more milk and more wheat and other food stuffs in spite of the shortage of labor. He and his family did this by working unreasonably early and late.

Now the war is over and the farmer no longer feels it his duty to produce more milk than he can sell. The dairy business here is apparently at the present time an outlet for the surplus of milk through the condensery. And there seems to be no market for condensed milk and while less than 4 1/2 per cent of all the milk produced during the past year was condensed still the action of condenseries threatens to demoralize the dairy business. All over the United States co-operative organizations for marketing milk are being started for the purpose of protecting the dairy industry and with the idea of stabilizing the market for dairy products.

The Northwestern Co-operative Sales Company is such an organization. Through the board of five directors and an Advisory Council of about 75 members it proposes to carry out the following program:

First.—The lowering of the cost of producing milk by economical feeding and co-operative buying of feeds and the disposal of low producing and unprofitable cows.

Second.—An increase in the consumption of dairy products both among farmers and consumers by an educational advertising campaign of the economic food value of dairy products. An effort will be made to discourage the use of so-called substitutes for butter.

Third.—An efficient and economical system of marketing whereby the producer will be assured of the greatest possible return without inflicting an unreasonable price upon the consumer.

The Condenseries throughout the country are openly opposed to the co-operative marketing idea. There is a very apparent concerted effort on their part to break up all organized efforts to protect the dairy industry. The situation at St. Louis is an example. Milk was being sold by the distributors in St. Louis for 16 cents a quart. The producers offered to sell their milk for $3.60 per hundred pounds or at a cost to the distributors of 7 3/4 cents per quart. The distributors refused to buy the milk at this price and the producers refused to sell for a lower price unless the retail price should be reduced. Accordingly the dealers raised the price to 17 cents a quart to the consumers and are shipping in the milk from Ohio, Michigan and Indiana.

One at least of Fulton County's condenseries has been shipping whole milk to aid the St. Louis dealers in their unjust war on the producers. Members of the Northwestern Co-operative Sales Company whose milk is being used for this purpose are asking themselves whether they should sell it to a buyer who is a party to such a system.

Jay C. Bprr, President The Northwestern Co-operative Sales Company.

HON. FRANK B. WILLIS FOR SENATOR

Speaking in Columbus recently, Senator Arthur Cooper of Kansas said:

"I hope Ohio's people will send Frank B. Willis to the U. S. Senate. He would be a great leader in that body."

The people of Ohio echo this sentiment of Senator Cooper's. For twenty years Mr. Willis has been in public life in Ohio and today he is one of the most widely known and most popular men in the state. Having worked his way through college on the viewpoint that "an education is worth nothing to me unless I get it myself," Mr. Willis won his admission to the bar with one of the highest grades ever given a man in Ohio. He became known throughout the state as a teacher of history and law before he became congressman and later governor of the state. Through his entire public career, Mr. Willis has been a typical representative of the best is American life.

He is a big man physically, and mentally. As a public speaker, he has a few peers in the country. His speech at the Chicago National Convention in June had much to do with winning the presidential nomination for Senator Warren G. Harding. If elected to the U. S. Senate, Mr. Willis will be an able representative for Ohio. Few men in the state more thoroughly understand the interests of a nation as a whole than Mr. Willis. He has widely travelled and widely studied. He knows personally most of the men who are to shape the course of the nation's destinies in the next four years. His service to Ohio and the nation as the Republican leader in the Senate supporting Warren G. Harding as President, are almost inestimable.

Every citizen of the United States who is interested in the nation's welfare is interested in the election of a United States Senator this year. So close is the situation in the Senate that one vote may determine the fate of the nation. A single Senator may control its action in the next session.

Ohio must be represented under President Harding by one man who stands for America First; who believes in protecting American products and American interests; who is unimpaired by the influence of unlimited European immigration is about to pour into the United States. Ohio's farmers and working men must be protected and the next Senate will have more to say than any other body.

Frank B. Willis, the Republican candidate for United States Senator stands for such policies as will insure protection to American interests. He is nationally known and has a record as Congressman and Governor which demonstrates that he thoroughly understands the interests not only of his own state but of the nation and can give in the next Senate the leadership which Ohio should have behind President Harding for the next four years.
